

Hưng Yên my hometown

In the heart of the Red River Delta

Hung Yen Province is extending to the east of Ha Noi, about half way in Hai Phong and departures to the island of Cat Ba. Especially the first province where the Red River Delta actually begins.

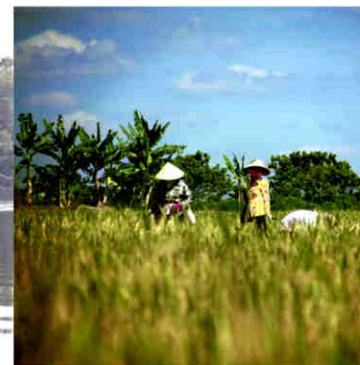

Beyond some craft villages, a bird collection site, the landscapes are mostly rice fields out of sight, interspersed with small streams and irrigation canals. The province is indeed one of the major rice producers in the Red River Delta.

To be honest, even if it is my home province, Hung Yen has no great tourist interest compared to the multitude of the country sites. However, if I decided to organize this trip, it is first to try to show you MY VIETNAM, one of my childhood, of my family, of my memories ...

It is therefore primarily a journey to the heart of a traditional Vietnamese family ... my family... Understanding how we live in the countryside, how we grow rice, how civil society is organized, how we cook and with which products ...

A small trip there with me therefore I think culturally nice, but especially humanely great. And if I'm available, I will be happy to come with you and personally explain you all this ...

Authenticity and Good Mood guaranteed !!!
